2025 TREE OF THE YEAR

Pawpaw Tree

Asimina triloba

The pawpaw (Asimina triloba) is indigenous to eastern North America. Known primarily for its large, custard-like fruit, the pawpaw is also an attractive native plant for the landscape. Pawpaw grow well in full sun or light shade and well-drained or moist soils. Trees can reach up to 30 feet in height.

Pawpaw trees serve as a host plant for the Zebra Swallowtail Butterflies and other pollinators.
